

SiteHawk and ChemicoMays Team Up to Enhance Chemical Management Offerings

Nashville, TN and Chesterfield, MI (June 29, 2010) – SiteHawk, the leading MSDS solution provider, and ChemicoMays, the industry standard for total lifecycle chemical management, announced today a partnership whereby ChemicoMays will supplement its current chemical process management solutions with chemical data management services from SiteHawk.

ChemicoMays provides a host of chemical management services including oversight of the purchase, storage, and disposal of chemicals as well as ensuring that customers comply with regulatory and environmental standards and reporting. Offering a unique combination of ingredients and chemical knowledge, ChemicoMays sets itself apart by being process-driven, not product-driven.

“Chemical data management is a critical part of the chemical supply chain and an important business need for the companies that we serve,” stated Leon C. Richardson, President and CEO of ChemicoMays. “We felt that SiteHawk offers the best MSDS and chemical data management solution to meet our customers’ high expectations.”

“We look forward to working with ChemicoMays and serving their customers,” stated Scott Williams, Director of Sales for SiteHawk. “Managing both the physical supply chain and the chemical information supply chain sets them apart from other chemical managers and we are excited to support their vision.”

SiteHawk MSDS management services within the ChemicoMays solution are available today. For more information, please go to <http://www.chemicomays.com>.
